LICENSING OF MOTOR VEHICLES ENTERING NATIONAL PARKS

Tourists entering Waterton Lakes National Park with the intention of making an extended tour of the other Mountain Parks will have the privilege of paying the $2.00 transient motor license, which will entitle them to entrance for the season to Waterton Lakes Park and also the three-park unit (Banff, Kootenay and Yoho) and Jasper Park, for which they will receive the "buffalo" emblem.

No license will be required by motorists who use the Chief-Mountain International Highway and the Cardston road from the International Boundary and vice versa, who do not include a visit to Waterton Lakes Park in their itinerary—in other words, the roads in question will not be subject to the motor licensing regulations, and travel thereon will be free to persons who do not intend to visit the Parks. The Pincher Creek road from the entrance to the Registration Office will also be considered with the Chief-Mountain and Cardston roads as part of the through highway system between Canada and the United States.

WELL KNOWN FORMER TRAVELLER PASSES AT CALGARY

Well known throughout the Crow's Nest Pass for many years, Robert S. Gibson, 66, resident of Calgary for twenty years, died at Calgary on Saturday evening, following a rather long illness.

Mr. Gibson, popularly known as "Bob," had been salesman for the Robin Hood Flour Mills Limited for twenty-five years, retiring in 1933. He was a member of Concord Lodge of the A.F. & A.M., and Calgary Lodge of Perfection, A.E.A. Scottish Rite. He was also a member of the Northwest Commercial Travellers' Association.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter.

The remains were laid to rest in the Burnside cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

Recently a charge under the liquor act was preferred against the Lethbridge community hotel, claiming that beer had been sold to a minor. The charge was dismissed by the magistrate, and the authorities then brought the case before the appellate division at Calgary, who admitted the appeal and referred the matter to Magistrate Beaumont for conviction and sentence. Conviction was registered, with fine of $200 and $5 costs.

A Calgary speaker referred to Newfoundland as having a pulp and paper mill. He should have stated that Newfoundland has three such plants, one of which, that of the International Power & Paper Company, is claimed to be one of the largest in the world, carrying with it a $12,000,000 power development plant. A fourth pulp and paper plant is now in prospect, to be located near the big airport of Botwood.

Less educated foreigners among the farmers of Alberta, including probably the Chinese, will have to settle down to a whole lot of intensive study if they are to avoid getting into the clutches of the law for not understanding the meaning of such fantastic terms as "MUTATIS, MUTANDIS," etc., to be found in the new Alberta farmers' production tax act. They will likely find out to their advantage that it does not mean eggs, chickens, cream, celery, tomatoes, parsnips, beets, greens, lettuce, carrots, cauliflower, string beans, green peas, pears, strawberries, garlic, raspberries, chop suey or fish. Well, he'll have to find out anyway, or else he is in line to become a servant of the Crown, such as Unwin was and Powell is.

The average weight of the Flyers' players is 170, that of the Smoke Eaters 197.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON (By T. B. Windroton)

EDMONTON, April 12.—The sixth session of the eighth legislature of Alberta is ended. The seventh, expected to be a special session in late summer, is now in prospect, and there still are periodic persistent rumors that a general election may be called in the autumn.

If the election were to be called, it is supposed in circles close to the government, it would follow, and be based on the decisions of the privy council on the three bills which are being referred to the supreme court of the British empire: the press act, the bank licensing act and the bank taxation act. There are also the questions of the federal right of disallowance of provincial statutes, and the right of a lieutenant-governor to withhold assent to provincial legislation. On all of these five points, the supreme court of Canada ruled against the Alberta government last month.

The session just closed saw the introduction of 14 bills, an all-time record for an Alberta legislature, and believed to be a record for any Canadian legislature. The vast majority of them were amendments to present acts, and many of them were minor amendments. In all, 102 of the bills were passed; the other dozen died by the wayside during the nine-week session.

Almost a score of the acts that were passed had to do with new taxation; the net increase in the burden on the province's taxpayers during 1937 and 1938, as a result of the session, was estimated at $600,000, of which the chief items were these:

Increase of $100,000 from the income tax act amendments, boosting rates on companies doing business in the province.

About $100,000 new revenue from increased rates under the Successor Duty tax act.

Another $100,000 under the Securities Tax act, levying two per cent on first, second and third mortgages.

Increase of about $44,000 in the taxation of real estate and loan companies through increased rates under the Corporation Taxation act. Further tax of $105,000 on banks, for a total of $220,000 a year in provincial levies in addition to municipal and federal taxation. There are fears in Edmonton that this new increase in taxation, gauged by branches, may cause the closing of some of the many branches in the province which have been operating at a loss.

Then the wild lands tax of two cents an acre, estimated to yield $45,000 during the next year, and expected to force much new land into production.

And the new mineral lands tax, expected to yield $50,000 through a levy of a third of a cent per acre on all mineral rights.

But the outstanding new tax act of the session was that providing for a production tax, by which the government gave itself authority to claim seven per cent of all agricultural products produced in the province.

It is the same type of tax that has been in force in the Soviet Union since 1925 for years, and hardly anywhere else. It is regarded by authorities as a petty onerous taxation, because the more real wealth a farmer produces in goods, for the benefit of the state, the heavier he is taxed by the state.

This Alberta act is to be referred to the courts by the government itself in order to test the validity of the legislation, and in any case will not be enforced this year, members of the cabinet told the legislature.

The government said that the idea is to make the production tax a substitute for other taxation, but there was nothing explicit in the act about doing away with other taxation on farmers when the production tax is enforced. It was noted, also, that the new tax applies to farmers alone; it is not to be enforced against any other industry and business in Alberta. It was observed that with enforcement of the production tax the government would be sure of collecting in produce the taxes levied against farmers who in the past have not been paying taxes in money.

The Social Credit board report was brought into the house in the dying days of the session, and the government side ignored a motion from the opposition benches to discuss it. Thus there was no consideration of Social Credit board activities or achievements.

Also left dangling in mid-air as the session closed was the move to reduce the size of the legislature. Hon. Lucien Maynard had brought in a resolution to cut the membership of the house from 35 to 25, but the motion was allowed to "die" on the order paper as the house prorogued. Thus ended the resolution adopted by the legislature a year ago, asking the government to bring in, this year, legislation to cut the size of the house and the number of paid cabinet ministers.

The reason for the collapse of this year's resolution, it was stated in legislative circles, was that members of the Social Credit caucus who were backers and supporters of the measure a year ago, were afraid that they would be the ones who would be deprived of the seat if the government were allowed to change constituency boundaries.

BIG BEN

The PERFECT Chewing Tobacco

Biting The Hand

There will be few Canadians, in Eastern Canada as well as in the West, who will quarrel with the suggestion that some means should be found or devised to prevent people who have amassed great wealth in Canada from escaping taxation and succession duties by moving to other countries.

There is no suggestion, of course, that the super wealthy should be prohibited from leaving Canada to reside elsewhere should they choose to do so, but it is proposed that some measures should be enacted to require these people to contribute their just share towards the cost of government of the country which has made their wealth possible.

Evading Obligations

The discovery that there are people who have made considerable wealth in this country and are seeking to avoid their obligations by retiring elsewhere and taking their wealth with them was revealed during discussions in the House of Commons, during which debate the suggestion was made that something should be done to prevent this evasion.

As the Editor of the Western Retailer, official organ of the Retail Merchants' Association in the prairie provinces said in the March issue: "Taxpayers must have been interested when attention was called in the Federal House to the fact that a number of Canada's super wealthy were leaving Canada to reside in the West Indies—to enjoy the climate, the scenery, and quite incidentally, to escape taxation. There was a request for legislation to make it impossible for migrants of this kind to escape taxation. No doubt that phase of the subject will be considered further.

As the same writer appropriately comments: "The question as to who should pay the most taxes arises. Surely the super rich should not be evaders. There are many such in Canada and in the U.S.A. who could pay half their income in taxes and still be unable to spend the other half. Yet recent disclosures have shown that they are the very people who, under skilled and no doubt highly paid aids, do evade taxation, succession duties and so forth."

Hard On Poorer Taxpayers

It is bad enough for the Dominion and the Provinces to have to lose their rightful and legal income from such sources, but what is worse is the fact that the delinquency of the rich, who by such means escape their obligations, entails severe loss upon the remaining and necessarily poorer taxpayers who are obliged to remain in the country and who can ill afford such additional burden.

The principal point is that those who have become wealthy because of the facilities and opportunities afforded them, by the country of their nativity or adoption, as the case may be, have a moral obligation to assist in supporting that country and the people—their neighbors—who have assisted them in creating a fortune for themselves and their families. If they choose to elude this obligation it is not going too far to say that they are willing to bite the hand that fed them.

Where Is Patriotism?

As the Western Retailer says: "It is disheartening to the struggling business taxpayer to read of these things, knowing that he must pay for their evasions. The wealthier a man is, the greater his responsibilities are and the finer and cleaner the example he should set for the rest. Singing 'O Canada' does not necessarily make a man a patriotic citizen or even a good one."

The revelations recently made in the House of Commons do, however, raise in the minds of many, another aspect of the question and that is the burdensome taxation from which all the taxpayers of the country, rich and poor alike are suffering due to over-government which in turn is caused by the existence of too many taxing governmental units for a country of comparatively sparse population and wide extent.

Fact finding bodies and organizations have established without fear of contradiction, that the people of this country are over-governed and it is to be hoped that some of the recommendations which have been made to the Rowell Commission on Dominion-provincial relations in an effort to remedy this condition and relieve the taxpayers of some of the excessive costs of government, will be given very serious consideration.

Worthy Of Consideration

Included in these recommendations are proposals for more centralized government, for the merger of some governmental units as well as for more equitable distribution of taxing rights and elimination of much overlapping which must necessarily result from a multiplicity of tax levying bodies.

All of these proposals and possibly others which have not been made direct to the Commission merit pondering and efforts should be made to reduce the tax burden on rich and poor alike if the people of the country are to be given an opportunity of again enjoying a reasonable measure of prosperity.

The fact, however, that the country is over-governed and over-taxed does not relieve those who have become wealthy in this country from their moral, if not legal obligations, to do their part in paying for the cost of government.

Will Go To Gibraltar

British Army's Tallest and Heaviest Officer Takes Command In Fall

The British War Office has appointed Gen. Sir William Edmund Ironside to command Gibraltar—the rock that guards the entrance to the Mediterranean Sea.

The man who once picked out the present Shah of Iran (Persia) from the ranks of his own enlisted men, was appointed governor and commander-in-chief of Gibraltar to continue an outstanding career that has straddled three continents.

The army's tallest and heaviest officer, he stands six feet five, weighs 250 pounds and has sharp, searching eyes. His friends call him "Tiny." He succeeds Gen. Sir Charles Harington, whose term at Gibraltar expires in October.

Since 1936 Gen. Ironside has been commander-in-chief of the eastern command—various counties in the east of England.

In 1921 Gen. Ironside, after commanding the North Persian force, had to find a native commander for his levies before going home. With anarchy reigning in Teheran, the capital, the levies formed the only regular army in Persia. The story told in London is that he strode swiftly down the ranks, pausing before a native officer almost as big as himself.

"That's your name," he asked.

"Reza Khan, Sir."

"You'll do."

Four years later the intelligence and bravery of Reza Khan, son of a peasant, led him to the Peacock throne vacated by the deposed Shah, Sultan Ahmad.

Gen. Ironside joined the army at 19 and now is 57.

Get Gift Of Flour

Ancient Custom Observed In English Village To Ward Off Curse

An 800-year-old curse lay behind a ceremony held at Tichborne, Eng., in which flour was distributed to 800 villagers of Tichborne, Cheriton and Lane End, in Hampshire.

Sir Anthony Tichborne, 23-year-old holder of an ancient baronetcy, helped to distribute the historic Tichborne "dole" instituted in the 12th century. Each adult received a gallon of flour; every child half a gallon.

In the 12th century the aged and ailing Lady Mabella Tichborne crawled around part of the estate while a torch burned. Her husband, Sir Roger de Tichborne, had offered to give to the poor a portion of the produce of the land enclosed by his wife's crawling journey. Lady Mabella vowed if the gifts from the estate were discontinued the Tichborne family would lack male heirs.

"I shall continue the ancient custom," said Sir Anthony at this year's ceremony. "If I fall legend says all sorts of dreadful things will happen to the family."

A Perishable Product

Eggs Will Keep Fresh Only Under Proper Conditions

The Consumer's Guide, published monthly by the Consumers' Council of the Agricultural Adjustment Bureau, says this in a recent issue: "Eggs may be fresh when a merchant buys them but they may spoil in a store. Eggs are a perishable product. In order to keep quality, they must be kept in a cool place. 'Strictly fresh' eggs in a window which is warmed by the sun will not stay strictly fresh very long. Eggs kept under proper conditions for five months might taste fresher than those which have been sunned for two days."

Plane Crashes

Accidents Fall To Lessen United States Enthusiasm For Naval Craft.

Loss of 11 lives and three $100,000 war planes in mock defence of the Hawaiian Islands failed to lessen United States naval officials' enthusiasm for aircraft.

Six of the victims were missing in a plane which dropped out of a six-plane formation during scouting duty.

Bodies of three other fliers were recovered from a bombing plane which crashed off Oahu Island in a rain squall. Two more bodies were believed in the submerged fuselage.

Germany Aiming For "Der Tag" And Intends To Win

Once more Germany is aiming for "Der Tag" and this time she does not intend to be on the losing side. She has drawn blueprints for what may turn out to be the most powerful war machine in Europe, and as fast as factory wheels can turn, those paper plans are being transformed into ships, tanks, airplanes and forts.

In the next war Germany's battle front will be as deep as the nation. Women will be subject to conscription under the Defense Act. Every wheat bin, dairy, brewery, electrician's shop and even farm animals will be part of the army.

Ludendorff, in his grave, no longer counsels the German general staff out of his experiences in the World War, but one idea he's offered them persisted. It is the idea of "total krieg"—totalitarian war—in which every unit of the nation almost down to babies is considered in the light of its military functions.

For example, Germany must not think of a horse as an animal that pulls a plow or can be ridden to hounds, but in terms of hauling a gun carriage or carrying a cavalryman.

Foreign observers say that there now has been accumulated a secret war chest of 1,000,000,000 reichsmarks in gold. Mobilization has been worked out to the most minute detail and civilians as well as army reserves will know exactly where to go and what to do when war starts. One phase of her military preparation that Germany cannot keep secret is the elaborate system of "autobahn", high speed federal highways along which troops can move with a speed hitherto unknown to the military mind.

Canton Island

To Be Used As An Air Base For Pan-American Airways

A Washington dispatch says Interior Secretary Ickes has granted a license to Pan-American Airways to use Canton Island in the south Pacific as an air base. The island, the ocean's an air base. The island's eight miles of lagoon will become a stop on commercial trans-Pacific air transport service between California and Australia.

Canton and nearby Enderbury islands, both coral atolls, recently were claimed by the United States and placed under supervision of the interior department by presidential decree. They lie approximately 1,850 miles southwest of Hawaii, and are on the air route between Hawaii and New Zealand.

Drivers of all public vehicles and motor trucks in France must submit to a physical examination.

CRITICAL SPEECH IS DELIVERED BY HON. H. H. STEVENS

Ottawa.—The federal government is quibbling over political constitutional points while every municipality in Canada either is bankrupt or verging on bankruptcy, Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon., Kootenay East) charged in the House of Commons.

Intolerable relief costs have placed Canadian towns and cities in their financial plight and there are only two alternatives open—widen their revenue field or relieve them of unemployment burdens, he said. Instead of going to root causes of distress in Canada, debt and taxation, parliament has been drifting along.

It was a fighting speech from the former Conservative cabinet minister who broke from the party before the 1936 election and led his own Reconstruction party, of which he is one representative in the house.

Speaking in the debate on unemployment policies, he laid down a many-sided attack on Liberal achievements and plans and when he sat down received as much applause from the Conservatives as from the other opposition groups.

Canadian municipalities are being forced to the wall, Mr. Stevens claimed. This has a depressing effect on Canadian credit abroad, as was demonstrated two months ago with a Canadian loan floated on the London market for £10,000,000 ($50,000,000).

"It ought to have been snapped up quickly," he continued, "but what happened? It hung fire for a week or 10 days and then the underwriters took up half of it."

On the same day, the city of Bristol, England, floated a loan for £3,000,000 ($15,000,000). He said the books were opened at 9 a.m. and closed five minutes later with applications for £68,000,000 ($340,000,000).

One reason for the reception shown the Canadian loan was the record of Canadian municipal financing and the number of defaults.

"Unless some action is taken here, there will be a very serious time ahead for Canadian cities," he warned. "There was not a major city in the country that was not in disgrace to Canada. In regard to a large part of the down-town districts and the older sections in regard to housing."

In Montreal and Toronto, tens of thousands of homes and offices with in a short distance of the city halls were hazardous to health and fire traps. Yet the federal government refused to face this problem with a clear-cut and workable housing and slum clearance plan.

"It will take us 30 years to build up the cities of Canada to a decent level of construction," Mr. Stevens continued. "The minister of labor says the municipalities are responsible and he will deal with them only through the provinces."

"The minister and his colleagues will have to face this question sooner or later. They have failed to face it in the last two years. They have failed utterly to face it through this (national employment) commission because its report does not contain anything in that connection except some pious observations that we ought to have a housing scheme."

Many times through his speech, the former Conservative was interrupted by government supporters. At one point he was asked what he had done about housing, municipal financing and other national problems while he was sitting on the treasury benches.

He had advocated these same policies for years, Mr. Stevens replied, in and out of office. And, he added pointedly, he had left office.

He might be the only representative of his party in the house, he told the Liberals, and as an individual, easily brushed aside, "but I represent 384,000 votes and I am not ashamed of my record nor am I ashamed of the policies I advocated. Neither am I ashamed of the policies for which I left office."

A Stubborn Army

Japan's War On China Has Reached Temporary Stalemate

Shanghai, Japan's war with China, now nine months old, has reached at least a temporary stalemate with little indication of how or when it will end.

The Rising Sun army, which swept through the northern cities of Peiping and Tientsin last summer, drove the Chinese out of Shanghai Nov. 9, and captured Nanking Dec. 13, has been unable to swallow the vast Lunghai area of central China.

A stubborn army of 400,000 Chinese has kept the invaders from reaching the Lunghai railroad, China's east-west lifeline through the heart of the area which separates Japanese northern conquests from captured Nanking, Shanghai and the lower Yangtze river valley plains.

Chinese analysis of the failure of Japanese to take the Lunghai speedily was that besides stiff frontal resistance, Japanese have faced increasing difficulties in shipping supplies, ammunition and reinforcements to the northern Lunghai battle area. Behind Japanese lines, Chinese irregulars time and again have severed temporarily Japanese rail routes to the front.

New Durum Wheat

Type That Yields More Than Thatcher Is Foreshadowed

Winnipeg.—Prospect of a new durum wheat that yields more than the present standard varieties is foreshadowed in a statement issued by the associated committee on grain research in annual sessions here.

The new durum, fairly rust-resistant, yields more than Thatcher, now one of the leading bread wheat types. The committee, a section of the National Research council, discussed 16 varieties of new durum. Minimum durum, the accepted commercial standard, for the present remains the most satisfactory, durum for Manitoba and south-eastern Saskatchewan, the committee decided.

At present low prices of durum wheat, farmers in the area subject to danger from stem rust are changing over to Thatcher. But should prices recover, the new durum, tested in rust areas, may be of importance to Manitoba.

Would Collect War Debts

United States Calls On Germany To Pay Money Owed By Austria

Washington.—The United States accepted Germany's absorption of Austria and called upon Germany to pay Austria's debts to the United States.

American acceptance of the change in Austria's status as an independent nation was made known in letters presented to the German government in Berlin by United States Ambassador Hugh Wilson.

He notified Germany that the United States has closed its legation in Vienna and established there instead a consulate general.

The debts which the United States claimed that Germany assumed total $64,493,480. Out of this total $26,005,480 are government debts from the Austrian government to the U.S. government, and $38,488,000 are debts of the Austrian nation, municipalities and utilities held by American citizens.

The Nordic Race

Claim Of German Racial Purity Is Described As Nonsense

London.—Chancellor Hitler's claims that Germany to-day stands as the purest nation racially, based on sound Nordic strains, are described as "utter nonsense" by Professor F. G. Parsons, British anthropologist.

"As a matter of fact I don't believe they have any Nordic blood left in Germany," he said. "It has been completely bred out by mixture with the central European Alpine, a fundamentally different racial type. England has a great deal of Nordic blood and practically no Alpine, which disposes of the erroneous tradition there is kinship between Germany and England."

Mail For Arctic

Last Delivery Until Next August Has Gone Forward

Churchill, Man.—Last mail for the icebound Arctic north of this Hudson Bay post until next August left recently in charge of Constable Robinson of the Chesterfield detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

A solitary Eskimo accompanied the constable on the lonely journey by dog-team into the Arctic wastes. The pair will call at posts as far north as Repulse Bay, 700 miles from here.

Robinson's sled, burdened by a load of nearly 1,000 pounds, carried 300 pounds of first class mail. Floe ice along the northern coast is approximately four miles wide—twice as wide as last year—and there is no sign of thaw as yet. Seals have not appeared on the floe ice and consequently seal hunting will begin about three weeks later than a year ago.

URGE A LOW COST HOUSING PLAN FOR THE DOMINION

Ottawa.—The government was urged from the Conservative and C.C.F. benches in the House of Commons to expedite a low-cost housing scheme in Canada.

Denton Massey (Cons., Toronto-Greenwood) and A. Heaps (C.C.F., Winnipeg North) joined in the suggestion while the house was considering a resolution prefacing introduction of the government's relief legislation. No progress was made in committee stage.

The C.C.F. member went further and suggested the plan involve house construction with assistance from the federal treasury, the money to be a new issue.

(The national employment commission submitted a draft bill on low cost houses to the government last session and a few days ago Labor Minister Norman Rogers said it was being considered by the finance department.)

Canada lagged behind other countries in attempts to stimulate the building industry, said Mr. Massey, particularly being outclassed by the United States. He criticized the government for not taking action earlier on the suggestion of the national employment commission and urged introduction of legislation this session.

THE RIVERS ARE RUNNING IN SASKATCHEWAN

Last Summer the Moose Jaw River was a dried up area covered with weeds, with diving platforms and boats perched grotesquely on its banks. To-day the Moose Jaw River is a raging torrent as the snow melts and drains down to the lower levels. The bottom picture was taken recently and shows water roaring over a dam at the head of the river. Little wonder the farmers in the Prairies are optimistic about a harvest in 1938, after eight years of drought.

Question Is Up Again

Big Drive Planned To Get Fixed Date For Easter

London.—Champions of a fixed date for Easter are planning a big drive to get their idea universally accepted next year.

For 10 years the communications and transit organization of the League of Nations has been custodian to the fixed Easter proposal.

In 1939 Good Friday will fall on April 7—which theologians believe to be the "true anniversary" of the crucifixion—and Easter on April 9.

Ten years ago parliament passed an Easter Act fixing April 9 as the correct date for Easter, but parliament's approval was conditional on universal acceptance. As next year Easter will fall on that date, British champions of the plan think it ought to be brought into force then, to avoid calendar dislocation.

Easter now can fall on any of the 35 dates from March 22 to April 25. The first Nice council in 325, established the date for Easter as the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox—March 21.

No Business Slump

London.—Lord Hirst, retiring president of the Federation of British Industries, told the annual meeting of the organization that it is a great fallacy to believe a slump must follow completion of the rearmament program. "I do not believe rearmament will finish in five years," Lord Hirst declared, adding it would be necessary to keep armaments up to date as long as other nations did so.

Would Help Spain

British Trades Union Council Urges Lifting Of Ban On Arms Shipments

London.—A deputation from the general council of Trades Unions congress called on Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax to urge lifting of Great Britain's ban on shipment of arms to the Spanish government.

Lord Halifax reiterated to the delegation, which represented more than 3,000,000 workers, that Britain was maintaining a "hands off" policy.

A group of Labor members of parliament, meanwhile, called a conference for April 23 to discuss methods of helping the Spanish government cause. Invitations were sent to political, religious and peace societies.

Earlier the Amalgamated Engineers' Union appealed to workers to give voluntary overtime on behalf of the Spanish government.

The union declared in a manifesto that overtime work would be used to produce non-ammunition goods, such as ambulances, for immediate shipment to Spain.

Canadian Farm Loan Board

Shows More Profit Than Loss Over Eight Year Period

Ottawa.—In the eight years since 1930, that the Canadian Farm Loan Board has been operating it has shown profits in five years and losses in three. It was said in a return tabled in the House of Commons by the finance department in answer to questions by J. A. Marshall (S.C., Camrose).

"Exemption from interest payments over a three-year term on $5,000,000 borrowed from the government of Canada is responsible, in part, for profits shown in the years 1931 to 1934 inclusive," the return said.

The board showed a $69,554 loss in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1930, its first year. Then came five years of profits: 1931, $106,423; 1932, $271,322; 1933, $298,844; 1934, $100,480; 1935, $59,292. Losses in 1936 and 1937 were $126,138 and $42,386.

At the end of 1937 the board held lands for sale in Alberta valued at $39,867, exclusive of properties leased with purchase options valued at $21,042.

LABOR VICTORY IS CLAIMED FOREIGN POLICY PROTEST

London.—The Labor party won from the government the first House of Commons seat at stake in a by-election since Anthony Eden resigned as foreign secretary in protest against Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy.

Dr. Edith Summerskill defeated the Conservative candidate, C. J. Busby, by a majority of 1,421 votes in the previously Conservative constituency of West Fulham, in London, polling 16,585 votes to Mr. Busby's 15,162. She immediately announced an ultimatum to the government to go "back to the League (of Nations) or get out."

Amid Labor rejoicing, Dr. Summerskill declared: "It was because the people of Fulham, speaking for the rest of the nation, have no faith in the foreign policy of the national government."

"The people have delivered their ultimatum—back to the league or get out."

Conservatives fought the campaign on the issue of the government's foreign policy of non-intervention in Spain and negotiations toward a friendship pact with Italy. It was over Italian negotiations that Mr. Eden resigned.

Mr. Chamberlain, Dominions Secretary Malcolm MacDonald and other cabinet ministers had publicly supported Mr. Busby through open letters. Labor attacked the government for what it charged was a "betrayal" of the League of Nations and a "drift toward war."

"Mr. Chamberlain's child-like faith in the dictators is not shared by the people of the country," Dr. Summerskill said after her victory "was announced."

"They remember with alarm that at the very moment the national government was asking the nation to have faith in their negotiations with Mussolini he was boasting about his troops invading Spain."

"This government has turned its back on the league. This election has been fought on Labor's demand that peaceful nations must become a chain so strong that the bulge of Europe dare not risk further aggression."

CHINESE MORALE IS STIFFENED BY RECENT SUCCESS

Shanghai.—With casualties running into thousands, the battle for possession of Tientsin-Chungking now transcends purely military importance, foreign observers believe.

It has become a major issue of the war, they say, involving prestige and morale for both Chinese and Japanese. They compare it with the Spanish civil war battle of Toledo, where the insurgents lifted the siege of the Alcázar.

Chinese morale has been boosted tremendously by their stand in the battered Shanxi province village against Japan's drive toward Su-chow, where the Tientsin-Pukow railroad crosses the Lunghai, east-west trunk railway line.

The fierce battle entered its 20th day of the war and counter-thrusts through streets and fields strewn with dead. The little town's mud walls have been flattened by artillery fire, but the outcome still is in doubt.

Chinese exulted at reports a Japanese column was annihilated by a Chinese assault and two others were retreating northeast toward Yhsien. Official reports to Hankow said 5,000 Japanese were wiped out at Tientsin-Chungking and the Japanese salient broken.

Independent advices from Su-chow tended to confirm the Chinese reports. But they said the Japanese were assembling the largest and most heavily-armed force they have massed since the battle of Shanghai. Japanese, countering the Chinese reports, said they were mopping up Chinese troops within Tientsin-Chungking and were attacking a Chinese force surrounded in the railroad station outside the city walls.

Reported by Hsiao said the jubilant Chinese commanders, Generals Tan Gen-Po and Kwan Ling-Chen, had asked to be executed if they failed to wipe out the Japanese at ruined Tientsin-Chungking.

Railway Inquiry

Senate Committee To See How Roads Have Been Run

Ottawa.—The first minister who the special railways committee of the senate will inquire into is the extent to which the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways have succeeded or failed to effect substantial economies, the committee decided.

At its organization meeting Rt. Hon. George P. Graham (Lib., Eganville), and Hon. C. P. Beaulieu (Cons., Montarville), were elected joint chairmen.

"It would be wise to take the Duff report as a starting point," said Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, when the committee considered where and how it would begin the inquiry.

Lord's Day Act

Changes Made In Senate From Its Original Form

Ottawa.—The senate gave third reading to a bill amending the Lord's Day Act. The measure was completely changed, however, from its original form.

When it passed the house the bill would have imposed imprisonment of directors, superintendents or employees who ordered performance of unnecessary work on Sunday. The senate deleted the jail provisions, then wiped out the personal liability of individuals, and finally made corporations who broke the Sunday observance law liable to increased fines up to $2,000 for third and later offences.

Tokyo.—Authoritative quarters here and in Manchukuo expressed belief Soviet Russia not only is lending military aid to China but also is preparing for an effort to recapture disputed islands in the Amur river seized by Japanese forces last June.

BEGINNING TO SEE THE LIGHT

Six years ago this great family journal warned the Ottawa government that the only way to meet the relief problem was to build two paved highways right across the whole of Canada, one from Vancouver to Halifax and the other from Prince Rupert through the great Peace River country and east along the southern shore of James Bay and away on through northern Quebec to Labrador. These roads could be completed in about ten years' time and would take every man off relief in Canada. The cost would not be one-tenth of the money that a war in which Canada was involved would call for. The construction of these roads, if built 50 miles back from the present railroads on the prairie, would open up a few country for settlement. Every gas station along the roads—and there would be one about every fifty miles—would be the potential nucleus for a little village, and many of them in good agricultural or mining sections would soon grow into towns and cities. It is a glaring crime that a country with the undeveloped resources of Canada should have no many on relief.

But the Ottawa government is at last beginning to see the light. A despatch dated April 5th from Ottawa says:

That a $100,000,000 four-year program of public works to end unemployment is under discussion by the federal government. All the work will be under direct supervision and management of the federal government.

It is proposed to expend from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 this fiscal year on such projects as:

A complete federal trans-Canada coast-to-coast hard-surfaced highway from Halifax to Vancouver. One plan is to carry an entirely new section across northern Quebec and Ontario from Montreal and Ottawa to Winnipeg. Another new section across Saskatchewan would cut off some 100 miles from the present haphazard route.

Increasing expenditure on prairie farm rehabilitation from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year.

Improving national parks with hard-surfaced highways, camp sites for tourists and hard-surfaced highways to connect with the trans-Canada main highway.

Other projects would include reforestation of logged-off lands, irrigation projects and the like—Fannie Free Press.

HOW AUCTIONEERS TELL THE AGE OF A HORSE

To tell the age of any horse
Inspect the lower jaw, of course.
The six front teeth the tale will tell
And every doubt and fear dispel.

Two middle nippers you behold
Before the colt is two weeks old.
Eight months the corners cut the gum
Before eight weeks two more will come.

The outside groove will disappear
From middle two in just one year.
In two, form the second pair.
In just three years corner two are bare.

At two the middle nippers drop;
At three the second pair can't stop.
When four years the third pair goes,
At five a full new set he shows.

The deep black spots will pass from view,
At six years from the middle two.
The second pair at seven years,
At eight the spot each corner clears.

From middle nippers, upper jaw,
At nine the black spots will withdraw.
The second pair at ten are bright,
Eleven finds the corners light.

As time goes on the horseman knows
The oval teeth three-sided grow.
They longer get—project—before
Till twenty—when we know no more.

TAKING STOCK OF LIFE

"Is life worth living? Well, so much depends On who are your neighbors, and who are your friends.
On what are your thoughts, and what your desires,
On whether your garden grows roses or briars.
If you are a miser, and worship your gold,
And for it would suffer with hunger
and cold;
If grinding the poor to increase your gain.
Is the principal thought that's employing your brain;
To such, I would say, this life is a curse.
Its pleasures tied up in an old leather purse.
You can't take your gold along when you die;
If you could, it would melt in the warm bye and bye.
If you have a heart sympathizing
with others,
A feeling that all mankind are your brothers;
If the beauties which God has planted down here
Are in touch and in tune with your eye and your ear—
If to live a pure life is your greatest desire,
And to manly manhood you ever aspire;
If one friend remains who will stand
by your side
And hold to your hand whatever betide,
Though fate may have saddened your life in the past,
Keep onward, look upward, you'll conquer at last.
The fruits of your labors all ripe, at the end
You'll gather, and life is worth living, my friend."

THE STRONG RIGHT ARM OF CANADA

RECEIVING deposits or making loans, Canada's banks are dealing largely with other people's money. Parliament has placed the strictest safeguards around the handling of other people's money.

When you deposit, or when you borrow, the strong right arm of the nation itself is thrown about you, for banking is subjected, through The Bank Act, to greater Government regulation, stricter supervision and more penetrating Parliamentary scrutiny than any other business in Canada.

Banks assemble the surplus funds of millions of Canadians, mostly in small sums. Based on these deposits, and their own resources, they make credit available where needed, for agriculture, commerce, industry, lumbering, mining, fishing, transportation, markets, governments, municipalities and individuals.

These are grave responsibilities. In discharging them the banks are fully supervised.

Charters of all Canadian banks expire at the end of every ten years; they can be renewed for no more than ten years and then only after the most searching parliamentary investigation of the whole business of banking. Can you name any other form of enterprise in Canada in which every company's charter expires at one time? Or which has at one time, for example, been investigated as a condition to continuing in business?

Parliament can, of course, amend The Bank Act at any time, but every ten years that Act is thrown open for what is known as the "Decennial Revision." Bank officers are called before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons. They are examined and cross-examined by members and every phase of banking is fully disclosed.

It is a large committee which includes many of the ablest minds in Parliament. Every province and every political party is represented on it, so that Canadians do not lack in any sense for the most penetrating examination of the business of banking.

Canadians as a people thus regulate the business of banking through their elected representatives. Into The Bank Act, the reason of the work of this Committee over the years, have been built all of the safeguards prompted by experience.

In addition, Canada's chartered banks are supervised in various other ways and operate under almost continuous scrutiny. Shareholders appoint their own auditors—chartered accountants—who closely examine each bank's affairs.

Then there is an Inspector General of Banks, an officer under the Minister of Finance, whose duty it is to keep throughout the year a vigilant eye upon banking operations. He has access to all bank records.

Banks have to make statutory returns to the Minister of Finance and to the Bank of Canada, periodically. Heavy penalties are provided for neglect to make them or if they contain falsity or deceit.

Each month they must report to the Government the total of loans made to bank directors or to firms in which they are partners, and of loans which directors guarantee. The return of January 31st, 1938, shows that the total of such loans does not amount to more than 1/80th part of the total bank loans.

There is no "money monopoly" in banking. Any group of reasonable people who will get $500,000 capital subscribed and half of it paid up, and who fulfil the requirements of The Bank Act, can start a bank. The requirements are devised to safeguard the people against fly-by-night promoters.

Up till 1934 chartered banks issued their own notes to the amount of their paid-up capital and might, on occasion, exceed that sum under definite and rigid legal limits.

In establishing the Bank of Canada, Parliament provided that for five years from and including 1936, there should be a steady year by year reduction in the note circulation of the chartered banks.

We can issue our own notes now only up to 85 per cent. of our paid-up capital. Each year, as this reduction takes place, the note issue of the Bank of Canada increases.

Thus it must be seen that banks have never had an unlimited power to issue notes—they have always been definitely restricted by Parliament, with heavy fines as penalties for any breach of these restrictions.

There is no mystery about the work of Canada's chartered banks—their doings are an open book to the Dominion Government, through the Minister of Finance, his officers, and the Bank of Canada.

The chartered banks are controlled by specific laws, regulations and restrictions designed for your protection as depositor, note-holder or borrower. Their work is to safeguard the thrift, promote the flow of trade and commerce and to facilitate the transfer of goods and services.

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

VOTES MILLIONS

FOR HIGHWAYS

An intensified campaign to provide Alberta with dustless highways appears to have been given impetus by the action of the provincial government in Quebec.

That government has just been authorized by the legislature to expend $50,000,000 on highway improvements under a four-year plan. This means that Quebec is going to make a strong bid for a greater share of tourist trade, and to do that it realizes that it must build dustless highways.

The action taken by Quebec is looked upon in Alberta as again demonstrating the importance of spending money to make a bid for the tourist trade.

The $50,000,000 to be spent by Quebec for road improvements is entirely apart from the $3,000,000 which the province estimates it will spend out of revenue for road purposes this year.

FIRST-CLASS AIR SERVICE

ACROSS CANADA THIS YEAR

Ottawa, Ont.—With the active development of the operating organization carried forward vigorously during past months, with the training of personnel well advanced, with difficulties inherent in the initial stages surmounted, the Trans-Canada Air Lines has attained momentum and is facing future development with confidence, according to the first annual report of the corporation, just presented by S. J. Hungerford, president of the board of directors. "There is every reason to expect," he says, "that the objective of a first-class air transport service across Canada, forging another link between the Atlantic and the Pacific, will be achieved in the year 1938."

Quebec now has set the pace and Alberta should not delay.

In Lighter Vein

The village policeman was passing the local inn when, noting that it was well past closing time, he saw a man still sitting in the bar.

He went to the proprietor and remonstrated. "That man should be outside," he said.

"Yes," replied the proprietor, "but I can't get him out."

"I'll soon see about that," replied the constable, promptly, and pitched the unfortunate man out.

"Thanks," replied the boss. "I've been trying to get him out for a long time. You see, he's the bailiff."

"Pardon me," said the stranger, "are you a resident here?"

"Yes," was the answer. "I've been here goin' on 50 years. What kin I do for you?"

"I am looking for a criminal lawyer," said the man. "Have you any here?"

"Well," said the other, "we are pretty sure we have, but we can't prove it."

Customer: "Is this a second-hand shop?"

Salesman: "Yes, it is."

Hannah: "Oh, I never heard of such extravagance. What do you suppose the Lord has given you the rheumatism for?"

When Wheat Moved West

OLD ONTARIO AND QUEBEC used to produce the bulk of the Canadian grain crop. But when the prairies were opened up they were found to be better fitted for this type of farming, so they replaced Old Ontario and Quebec as Canada's granary. One result of this is, since the turn of the century, Eastern farms that were better fitted for grain-growing than for anything else have gradually been abandoned. Roofless barns and vacant farm houses on Old Ontario's back concessions show how the tide of grain empire flowed Westward.

MANY EASTERN FARMERS followed the grain into the West. Many others moved into the cities of the East to work in the industries that were growing up there. Workers in the plants of Dominion Textile Company Limited, for instance, have come in great part from the rural areas of Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

SO THIS COMPANY has helped to supply employment in the older parts of Canada for men and women whose occupation was taken away with the great migration of grain farming to the prairies. Dominion Textile Company now employs 7,000 persons, who receive annually a total of $8,000,000 in wages.

THIRD CANADIAN YOUTH CONGRESS TO BE HELD IN TORONTO

Of more than usual interest is this third annual conference of Canadian young people who have embarked on a program of mutual assistance in matters of common concern.

In the face of national and world problems that are striking at the very heart of youth, the decisions arrived at at this Canadian Youth Congress, after serious discussion and collaboration, bid fair to play an important part in world affairs.

In sending greetings to the Congress, our Prime Minister, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, made this statement:

"The Congress is heartily to be commended upon its endeavors to direct attention to the outstanding issues of the day, whether they be domestic or external in origin, and to assist the young men and women of Canada to formulate a plan of active participation in efforts to establish and preserve peace throughout the world. In seeking to develop an informed and enlightened public opinion, the Congress is taking an essential and practicable step towards this goal."

At this Congress preparations will be made for a Canadian delegation to attend the World Youth Congress, meeting at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York, in August, 1938.

In addition to this, the Canadian Youth Congress will turn the spotlight on the first year achievement of the Youth Training projects under the Youth Rehabilitation scheme. A brief prepared on Youth Administration for the Department of Labor in Ottawa, will be scrutinized, amended and endorsed. Young people in all sections of Canada have their own peculiar problems of a regional character, which they alone thoroughly understand, and who better than they can formulate possible solutions. This Congress provides an opportunity where you may voice your needs, and rally the support of Canadian youth from Halifax to Vancouver. This is Your Congress.

For further particulars, write G. A. Gillander, Secretary Alberta Youth Congress, 130B - 9 Ave. West, Calgary, Alberta.

THE PERFECT PUN

The perfect pun is said to have had its origin in the House of Commons. An Irishman made a statement which called from an English opponent the cry, "Treason!" The Irishman replied: "I would have the honorable gentleman know that what is treason in England becomes reason in Ireland—because of the absent-tee."—Edinburgh Dispatch.

Aberhart never has anything to say from his pulpit these days about that recall incident at Okotoks-High River that saved him his job and salary, and stole $300 from the people of his own pet riding.

One of the most unfair pieces of legislation on our statute books is that which requires an hotel proprietor or steward to decide the age of a patron. It's the minor, who best knows his age and who knows full well that he is breaking the law on entering a beer parlor, who should be punished.

A giant clam shell, large enough to be used as a baby's bath, has been presented to the Australian museum. It weighs about 450 pounds, is three feet two inches in length, and two feet one and a half inches across. A baby aged nine months fitted inside the shell easily, with inches to spare at each end.

The Easter convention of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance will be held at the Palliser hotel in Calgary from Monday to Thursday of next week. Premier Aberhart, minister of education, is billed to address the convention in the opening session on Monday on the subject of "The Responsibilities of Education Progress." And it looks as though he won't be there. Time 2.20 to 3.00 p.m.

The Easter dance of the Blairmore Dramatic Club will be held in the Sartoris hall on Monday night.

Premier Aberhart is spending Easter with Mrs. Aberhart and daughters at Vancouver.

Cut interest rates to 2½ per cent or nothing, then tax the farmers' production seven per cent sounds like the Aberhart non-tax scheme and consistency.

Mr. and Mrs. James Altomare, of the Kootenay hotel at Natal, are leaving this week for an extended holiday in California. They were travelling by train.

The Aberhartians even boasted of how kindly government convicts were being treated in the Fort Saskatchewan jail. Really, according to reports, they were treated just as human beings would be.

Clergymen are to be banned from membership in the New Brunswick legislature. "I would be a happy idea for Alberta to adopt also, for the place for clergymen is in the pulpit for which they qualified and are probably best fitted.

It took the jury inquiring into the McDougall trial only eighteen minutes to return a verdict releasing Raptiste McDougall, 44-year-old Calgary half-breed, from guilt in connection with the death of his wife during a spree on October the 2nd last.

Just imagine: An under secretary of state for the whole British empire draws down less than $5,000 a year, while a technician accomplishing almost nothing in Alberta is drawing down $6,000 and swell emoluments. It is to laugh!

A man was taking tea with a great editor one Sunday afternoon when his little daughter came home from Sunday school with an illustrated text card in her hand. "What have you there, little girl?" the great editor asked. "Oh," said the little girl, "just an ad. about Heaven."

Members of the Midget and Pee-Wee Peavers were guests of the sponsors and trainers to a party in the Oliva hall on Saturday evening last. Each boy brought along a lady partner. They report having had a most enjoyable time, a fitting climax to an interesting season in hockey. The party was in charge of A. E. Ferguson, sponsor, and A. Vejprava, trainer.

According to the Cranbrook Courier, R. E. Marlow, of Lundbrook, has purchased and taken over the Frank Worthington place, just south of Cranbrook. He has brought in some good cattle and horses, and plans making extensive improvements on his new holdings. The place is one of the finest and best known around Cranbrook, and has probably the finest country residence in the district, it having been built at a cost of nearly $8,000.

Are Life Insurance Funds Invested in Alberta?

Answer.—Yes, to the extent of over Ninety Million Dollars.

Question.—Where are these millions invested?

Answer.—In the cities and towns, villages and country districts of the Province.

Q.—How are these millions invested?

A.—In many worth-while enterprises for the benefit of all the people of Alberta—homes—farms—schools—good roads—local improvements—industries—and transportation systems.

Q.—Then Life Insurance dollars really do "double duty"?

A.—Yes, these dollars not only give financial protection to the women, children and the aged—but they also benefit the general public through the promotion of worthy undertakings.

Q.—Why is it necessary for insurance funds to earn interest?

A.—To secure the reasonable interest return necessary under policy guarantees to meet all obligations at maturity.

Q.—What is the record of Life Insurance in Canada?

A.—Through depressions, epidemics, and wars, Life Insurance has continued to fill every guarantee to policyholders, 100 cents on the dollar.

This is the fifth of a series of messages sponsored by Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada. The sixth, to appear in two weeks' time, will discuss how women and children benefit from Life Insurance.

Last week end we received the following anonymous letter from a friend in Bellevue. We also claim we have as much right to publish an anonymous letter in print as Mr. Aberhart has to publish an anonymous communication through the "mike." This letter read:

"Dear Mr. Editor: Being a regular reader of The Enterprise, I wonder if you would help me with a problem. I need money, and cannot get it from the bank without offering big security and paying interest. I would like to borrow from Mr. Aberhart or any member of his government the sum of $2000, without interest or security of any kind. They talk as though they would help any poor soul out in that way. I have no security to offer, which of course is not required by our government.

"Sir, if I am successful in getting the $2000 on these terms I will promise faithfully to use all my influence in behalf of our present Alberta government.

Yours truly,
Anonymous."

Through the new farm production tax act, farmers of Alberta are liable to be the goats to the extent of $35,000,000. And the money, or part of it, is to be used to feed individual in the province who never intended to work or earn a livelihood, but who according to Hon. Low are worth $300,000 each. Beat it for silliness if you can.

GASOLINE DISTRIBUTION

The distribution system of gasoline consists of thousands of men engaged in management of their own business and who are known in their home communities as the local "oil men." The start of many of these local oil businesses was indeed humble. But the industry considers that in Canada and the United States, local oil companies are comprised of 10,500 jobbers, operating bulk storage plants and service stations, and some 105,000 retailers, operating stations supplied by jobbers or large oil companies, in which gasoline and oil are the main lines of merchandise.

These 115,500 local oil men employ 300,000 people, sales and service men in service stations, men employed around oil storage plants and driving trucks delivering merchandise from bulk plants to service stations, and the office help for the jobbers. The 300,000 employees, plus the 115,500 local oil men, add up to 415,500 persons making a livelihood in these organizations. Their annual payroll exceeds $430,000,000.

All these local businesses have been built up since the first drive-in station was built about 1907.

Country Is Primitive

Albania Has No Railways and Few Good Roads

When Countess Apponyi marries King Zog of Albania this spring, she will step from the 20th century atmosphere of Budapest, Vienna and Paris to the primitive conditions of the Albanian capital. She will share the newest throne in Europe and rule over a country of a million people, hundreds of whom are divided by blood feuds which have lasted for generations.

Albania has no equivalent in Europe. There are no railways, few good roads, communication is still predominantly by mule track, and despite King Zog's attempt to modernize his mountainous kingdom, only faint traces of western influence are to be found in the major cities of Tirana, Durazzo and Scutari. The capital Tirana, largest town in the country, has barely a population of 30,000.

Albania remains the only country in Europe whose telephone system is not linked with the international lines.

Although women are safe anywhere in Albania, they are rarely seen in the street, and most of them are veiled. They cook for their husbands and for their husband's guests, but they do not eat at the same table.—Montreal Star.

Issues Warning

Say No Jobs Open At Present In Northern Mining Camps

Hon. T. A. Cresser, minister of natural resources, issued a warning to men contemplating seeking work in the Northwest Territories and said there are no jobs open at present in the mining camps in the Yellowknife district, north of Great Slave Lake, 500 miles north of Edmonton.

Basing his advice on information received from the district agent of the Mackenzie district and from the sub-mining recorder at Yellowknife, the minister said forecast increase in mining activity at Yellowknife would not result in increased employment until possibly late in June.

The department was discouraging men from going to Yellowknife or elsewhere in the Territories in search of work because the mining companies were making their own arrangements outside and taking in only those for whom they could assume full responsibility, Mr. Cresser said.

The body temperature of a person living in the extreme cold of the far north is almost identical with that of one who resides in the steaming tropics.

Motor Car Of The Air

British Designer Producing An Aeroplane With All The Comforts Of A Motor Car

Secret tests have been carried out at the Barton airfield, near Manchester, of a new type of airplane, described as "the motor car of the sky," which is to be produced by a Manchester firm and marketed at a price under $500. Equipped with 80 h.p. engine, the plane is built almost entirely of reinforced wood, and is being designed to interest the Australian farmer, whose nearest neighbor may be 200 miles away.

The object of the designer, Mr. Norman Sykes, has been to produce an airplane with the comfort and facilities of a motor car. It has a large door on each side of the cabin easily entered from the ground. Inside the cabin one finds the controls, seating, windows, and rear-view mirror exactly as in a car. Turning the ground or in the air is accomplished by using a steering wheel.

The landing wheels are fitted with brakes operated by a foot pedal. The wing is fitted with air-brakes, or "flaps," worked by a hand lever similar to the hand brake of a car. Friction devices have been introduced, which, once the craft has been put on its course, lock the controls, allowing the pilot to relax.—Industrial Britain.

A Crucial Point

Says Canada Is Suffering From Growing Pains Under New Conditions

Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia said in an address to the Empire Club of Toronto that Canada has reached a crucial point in her history.

"Notwithstanding our favorable physical position, and strong vigorous people, Canada is suffering from growing pains under new conditions and demands consequent upon economic and social changes," he said.

"It is necessary that remedial measures shall be applied in order that all parts of the Dominion comprising confederation may prosper individually and collectively."

Confederation as conceived by the men who brought it about "seems threatened by dissension, misunderstanding and sectional determination," said Premier Pattullo, suggested existing differences of opinion were less wide than those prevailing between the Fathers of Confederation themselves.

FLIN FLON

"The Story of Its Finding and Position To-day"

By FRANK KUHN

"BING"—THE FIRE DOG OF FLIN FLON

Just a bouncing Boston Bull, white mouse, chest and paw, is "Bing" Flin Flon, but he's a self-taught fireman, believe it or not.

He was born in 1932 and ever since he was a half grown pup he attended every fire drill and every fire, summer or winter.

They used to use a fire call in Flin Flon and they also use it in mine. "Bing" will be on hand like a flash from a gun on a fire signal, but disdainfully refuses to argue for a blast call. How does he know the difference?

He has established a patrol route of his own which extends a block down the main street, across and up the other side, and this is why he's always on hand before even the firemen when a fire call sounds because the hall is just at the end of the main street and he's the highest spot on the engine and hangs on. "Bing" knows every fireman and policeman. He knows every place of apparatus on the motorized engine and it's a scream to see him help pull the hose off the reels, bounding and barking in great excitement.

Here's something you'd hardly believe. This dog can catch the fire truck going about 10 miles an hour, spring on the rear step and balance himself with paws around the upright post just like a fireman.

The second show in the local theatres starts at 8 p.m., so when keeping order till that time, "Bing" calls it a day, goes to the fire hall, and Chief Otto O. Klutz escorts him to the home of his owner, Mr. J. D. McMartin, where "Bing" barks a good night. This has been going on for years.

But let the alien sound in the night and owner McMartin has got to get out of bed pronto or "Bing" would go through a window to attend the fire.

In some strange fashion he knows Sundays and never appears at the Fire Hall, but does hunt out a taxi driver named "Nick," who once befriended "Bing" by taking him home after a dog fight.

He puts the works on Nick for a drive to Phantom Lake, a few miles from Flin Flon, where he's a good beach and bathing. Arriving there, "Bing" takes his turn diving with the boys and girls of the do-of-bath Flin Flon, I think know "Bing," judging by the questions asked him had answered. I, myself, met him at a small fire in the meadow just outside the town within an hour after he'd arrived there.

Following the reels and the crowd,

"Bing" climbs a ladder to follow the fire hose over freight cars.

"Bing"—the fire dog of Flin Flon—waits for Chief Otto O. Klutz to get aboard. Chief Klutz came from down Kitchener, Ont. way, and this is a striking likeness of him standing in front of the fire truck.

Awarded McKee Trophy

Romeo Vachon Honored For Aviation To Canadian Aviation

A flyer since the early 1920's and instrumental in developing air services along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence in recent years, Romeo Vachon was awarded the McKee trophy for service to Canadian aviation during 1937.

In making the announcement, Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie said Vachon "throughout his career has been outstanding in his dual capacity of pilot and air engineer."

"It was due to his foresight and administrative ability that there exists to-day the efficient and necessary air service along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence," the minister added.

"Mr. Vachon's qualification for the award is not dependent on any spectacular feat in aviation but on the more solid basis of years of untiring effort which has earned the admiration and high regard of everyone connected with aviation in Canada."

Employment for nearly 600,000 persons normally is provided by the railroads of Great Britain.

Termites, or white ants, are not true ants and are in no way related to them.

I saw this dog jumping through the water from the pumper, and when it caught him full on, he rolled like a rubber ball. Back he came and the transformation from white to black as he was covered with mud torn up by the hose, and reversal black to white as he dashed back through the water, was about as funny as anything I'd seen. My enquiries then later told me the story above.

"Bing" is a ladies' man, attends all girls' softball games, and has been elected an honorary member of one of the clubs.

Flin Flon is not a company town, but it has been mightily well-treated by the mining company after which it is named. Schools, skating and curling rinks, community hall, etc., are, according to the residents—largely a contribution of the company, but there seems to be no air of condescension about it, but simply good neighborliness.

Like Flin Flon and the people I met and I like the spirit of the place. Too bad there's not room or employment for 7,000 more people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
APRIL 17

THE VICTIMOUS SERVANT (EASTER)

Golden text: This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses. Acts 2:22-24.

Lesson: Acts 2:22-30.

Devotional reading: Philippians 2: 5-10.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Proclamation of the Crucifixion and Resurrection of Christ, Acts 2:22-24. Last week, we heard Jesus tell his disciples that death by crucifixion was to be his portion, and heard Peter rebuke him, saying (Mt. 16:22) "Be it far from thee, Lord: this shall never be unto thee." Now the crucifixion has taken place, and Peter has taken up his cross and is following after Christ; giving no thought to his own safety, he is thinking only of his Lord and his Lord's work. His bold words uttered at Pentecost begin with Jesus as a Man approved of God, Jesus of Nazareth, but they end with Jesus as Lord and savior.

Jesus had wrought many wonders of which they themselves were witnesses, Peter told his hearers. "They had crucified and slain Jesus, all in accordance with God's will, even his own purpose" ("being delivered up by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God"), but death could not hold him.

Peter's Arguments in Proof of Christ's Resurrection, Acts 2:25-30. Peter then quoted from Psalm 16, ascribing to the words a prophetic meaning. David had died and been buried and his tomb all could see; there he had been seen corrupting and it was not of himself that he had spoken, but of the resurrection of Christ, when he said (Ps. 16: 10).

For thou wilt not leave my soul to corruption.

Neither will they suffer thy holy ones to see corruption.

"The Pauline's thoughts carried him beyond mere temporal deliverance, beyond the changes and chances of this mortal life. To the assurance of a union with God, which death could not dissolve; while as Christ read with Peter, a deeper and fuller meaning still in the words, as we recall the life, death, resurrection and ascension of Christ."

Gardening

There are hundreds of annual flowers which may be satisfactorily planted by the person who is not going to stay long in one place. These annuals will make their full growth in a few weeks and bloom profusely from next June until frost. Vegetable gardens, too, can be developed in a few weeks and will give ample return the same year.

Even a fair layout of grounds can be carried out by a tenant. Quick growing grass will make a very fine lawn in less than six weeks and one infinitely better than a patch of matted grass and weeds. Instead of permanent shrubbery and climbers, a perennial of good seed catalogue will disclose many bushy annuals among the flowers and some climbers which will grow up to 20 feet in a few months. There are at least a score of big, bushy annuals which reach a height of from four to seven feet and can be used for screening just as effectively as tall, slower growing shrubs.

The first of the garden peas, leaf lettuce, radish and spinach will be among the earliest vegetables sown. These may be planted as soon as the ground is fit to work. All of the first named seeds should be sown at three times, at intervals of ten days so that there will be a succession of vegetables. The second sowing will be carrots, beets, onions, potatoes, etc., which can stand a little frost, and then beans, corn and tomato, cabbage and cauliflower plants, etc., which will kill with frost. Final seeding or planting will be those hot weather vegetables like lima beans, squash, well started egg and pepper plants, cucumber, melons and similar things, constantly cultivated garden. This will seldom be affected by drought. This sowing of the top soil prevents evaporation of moisture and it also keeps down those robbers of plant food and water—weeds. Especially during the early part of the season the cultivation is necessary, and more particularly after each shower. With some of the many hand, horse or tractor-drawn garden cultivators on the market, this task is done quickly and without the old time back-ache.

Britain To Spend Large Sums For Construction Of Airports

Plans include concrete buildings to house officers and men, hangars of concrete with special anti-aircraft defences, and underground fuel storage tanks. "Construction of new bases will involve provision of extensive gas, electric, and water facilities and the building of roads."

Turned Down Award

Paul Muni Refused To Accept Statue For Fine Acting

Paul Muni, motion picture actor, rejected an award for good acting when he returned from Europe. "I don't accept any of those things," he said.

A representative of the Manischewitz Foundation had gone down the bay to meet Muni's boat and present the foundation's fine art award, a bronze statue, for Muni's interpretation of the role of Emile Zola. When the ship docked, the foundation's representative went away disconsolate, still carrying the statue.

Proved By Test

That Women Are Evidently More Superstitious Than Men

The question of who is more superstitious, women or men, has been solved at Simcoe, Ont., to the satisfaction of one observer. A ladder leaned against a downtown building and, in five minutes, according to strict compilation of 62 people who passed by, 30 women and girls made a detour. Only six men bowed before the old superstition. The remainder walked under the ladder.

Shipment Has Been Stopped

United States Not Letting Germany Have Helium Gas

A sudden change of mind of the American government has brought about a new situation on the question of helium and its export. Until recently we understood that authorization had been given by Congress for the delivery to the German Zeppelin Company, which Herman Wilhelm Goering, air minister and Nazi No. 2, is a member of, 17,000,000 cubic feet of helium for use in the new dirigible constructed by Germany to replace the ill-fated Hindenburg which exploded with heavy loss of life at Lakehurst. Newest dispatches from Washington reveal that Secretary Ickes has blocked the shipment, despite the fact that tank ships from Germany are docked on the Texas coast in the Gulf of Mexico to take away the expected supply.

So far, the only known supply of helium, a non-inflammable gas, without which dirigible construction and flying are foolhardy, is to be found only in the United States, which thus controls the safe lighter-than-air flying of all the nations on earth. In a spirit of international generosity, the United States has expressed willingness to share its helium supply so as to further the commercial and industrial enterprises of other nations, Germany particularly. The latest development is interpreted in Washington as arising from the government's failure to receive satisfactory assurances from Germany that the helium will not be used for military purposes but will be devoted only to commercial and industrial and medical uses.

Repercussions of the Nazi coup in Austria are indicated also in the report that there is a growing disinclination on the part of the United States navy to complete negotiations with Germany to permit the use of dirigible to use the navy's mooring mast at Lakehurst.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

Farm Accounting

Importance Of Having A Record Of All Business Transactions

Modern farming is a business and to be successful should be conducted in a business-like manner. Farming has developed to the stage where it is a commercial enterprise in which the farmer has to permit the market largely determines income and profit. It involves the production and sale of commodities as well as the use of capital and the purchase of supplies and labour the same as most other kinds of business.

Present conditions in farming emphasize the importance to the farmer of having a record of his business transactions as well as a permanent record of other details of his farm enterprise to which he can readily refer. The problem of the farm is to meet conditions in such a way that his farm will give him the most satisfactory net returns, year in and year out, for the use of his investment, his labour and his managerial ability. Many farmers realize that some change or adjustment in their combination of enterprises or methods of management might increase their farm income. They may be unable, however, to determine what changes to make owing to a lack of records on which to base any changes in enterprises or methods. A farm account book, properly kept and analyzed, can do this for the farmer. An account book points out the weak spots in the farm business and points out the holes through which the profits have leaked.

A Farm Account Book may be procured from the King Printer, Ottawa, at a nominal price.
